UPS Explosion

A "large explosion" ripped through a UPS vehicle maintenance facility in Kentucky on Wednesday leaving at least two people with non-life threatening injuries.

The two who were injured were transported to a local hospital, while at least six others were taken to the hospital as a precaution. Welding tanks appeared to have exploded blowing a huge hole through the roof of the facility.

Around 20 emergency crews responded to the explosion. It seemed that it happened at the rear of the business. There was nothing that led investigators to believe that the cause was anything more than accidental, but the investigation will be continued as a precaution.

The Spotlight: Junior

Today's person of the day is Junior Tajah-Rayne. In school she participates in robotics and band. Out of school she is in a worship band and she teaches Sunday school. Her favorite teacher is Mr. Roland because she received her first detention from him. She does not know what her plans are after high school yet.

Really?

- Kansas state law requires pedestrians crossing the highways at night to wear tail lights.
- The average person spends about two years on the phone in a lifetime.
- The most money ever paid for a cow in an auction was $1.3 million.
